Gaza, March 9 -- The Palestinian death toll from ongoing Israeli attacks on the Gaza Strip has risen to 30,960 with 72,524 others wounded, the Hamas-run Health Ministry said in a press statement on Saturday.

During the last 24 hours, the Israeli army killed 82 Palestinians and wounded 122 others, it added.

The statement noted that some victims remained under the rubble amid heavy bombardment and a lack of civil defense and ambulance crews.

Dozens of Palestinians, the majority of whom are children and women, were killed and others injured in a series of Israeli airstrikes that targeted multiple areas across the Gaza Strip since Friday night, Palestine's official news agency WAFA reported.

The report said at least 23 people were killed in intense airstrikes that targeted a number of houses in the southern Gaza Strip cities of Khan Younis and Rafah.

Israel has been launching a large-scale offensive against Hamas in the Gaza Strip to retaliate against a Hamas rampage through the southern Israeli border on Oct. 7, 2023, during which about 1,200 people were killed and more than 200 taken hostage. UNI/XINHUA AKS

Two more babies died of malnutrition in the northern Gaza Strip on Monday amid an Israeli blockade on the Palestinian enclave, according to medics.

The two infants lost their lives at Kamal Adwan Hospital in Beit Lahia city, Samer Labad, a pediatrician, told Anadolu.

"They died as the Israeli occupation refused to allow food and medical supplies into northern Gaza," he said.

The Palestinian doctor warned that more children are at risk of death from malnutrition as a result of Israel's ongoing blockade on the enclave.

"We appeal to the Red Cross and international agencies to urgently intervene to provide food and medical supplies to the residents of northern Gaza," he added.

Israel has waged a deadly military offensive on the Gaza Strip since an Oct. 7 cross-border attack led by the Palestinian group Hamas in which nearly 1,200 people were killed.

More than 31,100 Palestinians, mostly women and children, have since been killed in Gaza, and over 72,700 others injured amid mass destruction and shortages of necessities.

Israel has also imposed a crippling blockade on the Gaza Strip, leaving its population, particularly residents of northern Gaza, on the verge of starvation.

According to the Palestinian Health Ministry, at least 27 people have died of malnutrition and dehydration in Gaza due to the Israeli blockade.

The Israeli war has pushed 85% of Gaza's population into internal displacement amid a crippling blockade of most food, clean water, and medicine, while 60% of the enclave's infrastructure has been damaged or destroyed, according to the UN.

Israel stands accused of genocide at the International Court of Justice. An interim ruling in January ordered Tel Aviv to stop genocidal acts and take measures to guarantee that humanitarian assistance is provided to civilians in Gaza.

The Ministry of Health in Gaza said that the Israeli occupation committed 8 massacres during the past 24 hours, leaving 72 deaths and 129 injured, noting that several victims are still under the rubble and on the roads because the occupation prevented ambulance and civil defence crews from reaching them.

The ministry indicated that the toll of the brutal war had risen since 7 October, to 31,184 deaths and 72,889 injured, indicating that 72% of the victims were children and women. The death toll from hunger rose to 27 amid the lack of food in the Strip.

The Ministry of Health said that the aid reaching the northern Gaza Strip is very little and is not enough for anyone, adding: "Doctors will die... nurses there will die, and the world will witness the largest number of victims of hunger in the coming days."

Also on Tuesday, a ship carrying about 200 tonnes of food sailed from a port in Cyprus, in a first attempt to launch a new sea route to deliver aid to residents of the Gaza Strip who are on the brink of famine. The rescue ship "Open Arms" was seen sailing from the port of Larnaca in Cyprus, towing a barge containing about 200 tonnes of flour, rice, and proteins.

Meanwhile, Philippe Lazzarini, Commissioner-General of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees (UNRWA), said that the Israeli occupation prohibited the entry of critical medical aid, including life-saving supplies, into the Gaza Strip.

Lazzarini confirmed in a post on the X platform that all residents of the Gaza Strip depend on humanitarian aid to survive, adding: "Very little is coming and restrictions are increasing," adding that "a truck loaded with aid was returned because it contained scissors used in medical kits for children."

Lazzarini pointed out that the list includes basic and life-saving materials, including anesthesia medications, oxygen cylinders, ventilators, water-cleaning tablets, cancer medications, and other necessary medical supplies.

In the meantime, Egypt invited the leaders of the Islamic Resistance Movement (Hamas) to visit Cairo, within the next few days, to review what it described as a developed US plan regarding reaching a truce agreement.

On the ground, the Al-Quds Brigades, the military wing of the Islamic Jihad Movement, said that its fighters detonated a high-explosive device with an occupation army force of 6 individuals inside a residential apartment in Hamad Town, north of Khan Yunis.

The brigades also announced the targeting of a military vehicle and a D9 bulldozer with RBG shells, and the bombing of gatherings of occupation soldiers with mortar shells in the city.

For its part, the Izz Al-Din al-Qassam Brigades, the military wing of Hamas, announced that it had detonated two explosive devices with two Israeli forces, noting that its fighters clashed with members of those two forces in Hamad Town, north of the city of Khan Yunis, and that they left them dead and wounded.

Al-Qassam also announced that it had targeted an Israeli Merkava tank with an Al-Yassin 105 shell in Hamad Town, south of the Gaza Strip.

At least 82 people have died in the Gaza Strip in the past 24 hours, bringing the death toll since Israel's military offensive on the enclave began to 30,960, according to the latest tally from the Hamas-controlled Gaza Health Ministry.

"A number of victims are still under rubble and on the roads, and the occupation is preventing ambulances and civil protection teams from reaching them," the ministry denounced.

The number of wounded rises to 72,524 in five months after adding the 122 of the last day, in addition to the nearly 8,000 bodies missing under the rubble.

In addition to Israeli attacks, famine has begun to claim lives in the north of the enclave in recent weeks and three more babies died yesterday in Gaza City's Shifa hospital from malnutrition and dehydration.

The famine death toll now stands at 23, most of them babies, but also an elderly man and a 15-year-old teenager, the Health Ministry announced.

Five Gazans were also killed yesterday by the impact of humanitarian aid boxes airdropped in Gaza City.

The official Wafa news agency reported the death of six Gazans at dawn on Saturday in Israeli shelling of several homes in the Zaytun neighborhood in southeastern Gaza City, while in the Jabalia refugee camp, also in the north, nine citizens, including children, were killed in artillery attacks on several homes.

In another incident in the Zaytun neighborhood, "at least 20 citizens were wounded when occupation forces attacked citizens waiting for help at the Kuwait traffic circle, which has already witnessed many massacres committed against hungry stomachs," Wafa said.

In the center of the Strip, five Gazans were killed by Israeli artillery attacks on the town of Deir al-Balah, and on the outskirts of the Nuseirat refugee camp, according to the Palestinian agency.

In Khan Yunis, the main town in the south of the Strip where the most intense Israeli offensive since December is concentrated, at least 23 citizens, including women and children, have been killed in a series of raids on homes.

The army claimed today to have killed "about 20 terrorists" in Khan Younis in hand-to-hand clashes and airstrikes. Wafa also reports an Israeli bombardment of the Masry residential tower in the center of Rafah city on the southern edge of the enclave, wounding several citizens.
